BETTY GOW IS PUT ON STAND

Roosevelt Forecasts New Debt Peak of 34 Billion

Budget Message Asks 8½ Billion; Revenue 4 Billion

Too Early Yet to Expect Balanced Budget, President Declares

NO HIKE IN TAXES

Warns These Will Be Levied, However, If "Raid" Attempted

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON.—(P)—A four billion dollar work-relief fund was asked of congress Monday by President Roosevelt in a message forecasting a new peak public debt of $34,239,000,000 on June 30, 1936.

Declaring unemployment alone blocked a balanced budget, he envisaged an evening of government expenditures and receipts "as rapidly as private industry is able to re-empt" those who now are without work.

This second financial accounting of the New Deal, read separately to an expectant senate and house, allowed for the spending of $17,101,000,000 in the two year fiscal period that ends 19 months hence.

The president's request for $4,000,000,000 was coupled with the recommendation that the money be "in one sum, subject to allocation" by himself. This phase of the budget was expected to stir congressional controversy.

The total asked for the year beginning next July 1 was $8,520,413,609, with receipts estimated at $3,991,904,639. This would mean a $4,528,508,970 deficit, compared with $3,869,418,338 expected for the year closing next June.

No New Taxes
Congress was informed the government's income would meet all expenditures except those "to give work to the unemployed." Mr. Roosevelt did not consider it advisable at this time to propose new taxes but asked the continuation of existing levies.

To newspapermen, the president said there was no need for "inflation" to finance his huge 1936 budget. The treasury planned to borrow needed funds. But he warned simultaneously that extra appropriations by congress must be paid for with new taxes, significantly, there was no budget provision for cashing the $2,100,000,000 soldiers bonus. "I will not consider it advisable at this time to propose new taxes but asked the continuation of existing levies."

The goal set a year ago for balancing the budget in the 1936 fiscal period with a peak debt of $31,800,000,000 was recalled by the president with the remark: "Unemployment is still large."

"The states and local units," he continued, "now provide a smaller proportionate share of relief than a year ago and the federal government is therefore called upon to continue to aid in this necessary work."

In Balance by 1936
"For this reason it is evident that we have not yet reached a point at which a complete balance of the budget can be obtained. I am, however, submitting to congress a budget for the fiscal year 1936 which balances except for expenditures to give work to the unemployed."

Reviewing the budget message with reporters, Mr. Roosevelt said he expected the $4,000,000,000 work program (Continued on Page Three)

The meetings are to be conducted by D. J. Burleson, state extension agronomist, and J. A. Relph of the American Refrigerator Transportation company.

These meetings will be of assistance to any farmer who is interested in the agricultural outlook for 1935, and a special effort should be made to attend one of these meetings.

Flier Is Injured as Plane Crashes

Leo Mulcahey of Texarkana Sustains Fractured Skull

TEXARKANA.—Fog which settled densely over this section Sunday sent an airplane crashing to earth and critically injured its pilot, Leo Mulcahey, 42, as he made a forced landing 16 miles east of Texarkana, two miles off the East Ninth street highway. The plane, property of Bonner Murray, thirty-sixth and Main streets, was demolished.

Mulcahey and Murray had taken off from the municipal airport here for a ride. As their ship neared the river fog closed around it and sent it to 400 feet. Mulcahey lost his directions and seeing an opening in a field beyond set the ship down to ascertain the way back to Texarkana.

The landing was perfect but the pilot realized that he would have difficulty in the take off. He told Murray: "I'll go up alone, see if I have enough clearance and if so I will return for you. Otherwise you catch a ride into town."

"He cleared the trees, circled and was coming back down for me when the plane struck a tree, tipping off both wings," said Murray.

"The ship plunged to the ground" not 30 yards from where I stood. I and others who had gathered in the field ran to the wreckage. Mulcahey's body hung half way out of the cockpit over the side of the plane. He was unconscious.

"Thank God the plane didn't catch fire after the crash or he would have gotten him out."

Oil Workers Play Long Dictatorship

Speaker Says All Legislators in Louisiana Should Be Hanged

BATON ROUGE, La.—(P)—A cheering crowd of several hundred oil refinery workers and others Sunday night reaffirmed the organization of a "square deal association" to combat the "dictatorship" of Senator Huey P. Long at a meeting in which one speaker yelled they ought "to hang every legislator, commencing with your governor."

When the group first decided to wear blue shirts as a sign of united purpose, and later changed to buff or insignia instead, James L. McMahon, who said he was not an oil worker, declared he didn't "think much of the blue shirts, but I'd wear a six-gun and a butter."

"Out west, they hang men on telephone poles," he said.

He asserted that Louisiana was "run by a maniac and that there were 25 machine guns in the state house."

The state bureau of criminal identification and investigation is housed in the capital.

Voting Is Begun in Saar District

Public Employees Vote Monday, Others to Polls Sunday, Jan. 13

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar.—(P)—Voting began Monday in the history-making Saar plebiscite which was ordered 15 years ago at Versailles.

Five thousand public employees cast their ballot in a dress-rehearsal of the mass voting which will be held next Sunday, January 13.

The public employees were allowed to vote early because they must work on the regular election day.

Legislature Will Convene Jan. 14

Problems Much the Same as in First Session Met 100 Years Ago

LITTLE ROCK.—When the Fifth Central Assembly convenes in the capital next Monday an extensive program of legislative subjects for legislation will be laid before its membership by Governor Futrell and by organizations and individuals throughout the state, but even a casual scrutiny of legislative history reveals that the general scope of those subjects has remained practically the same during the period of nearly 100 years since the first state legislature met.

Mrs. Tommie Stone Worth, home demonstration agent, will attend the meeting from Miller county and hopes to take with her a sizable delegation of leaders in home improvement and betterments.

Cotton Benefits in 1935 Estimated

Payment of $9,153,590 to Arkansas Growers Is Expected

LITTLE ROCK.—Estimates made by the AA in Washington, D. C., indicate that 876,000 acres will be rented to the government by Arkansas cotton producers in 1935 as their share in the cotton acreage reduction program, and that $9,153,590 will be received by them in rental and parity payments. T. Roy Reed, assistant director in charge of the Agricultural Extension Service has announced.

Contract signers will be paid for their rented acres at the rate of three and one-half cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton produced per acre from 1928 to 1932, with a maximum rental of $18 per acre," Mr. Reid said. "They will also receive parity payments of one and one-fourth cents per pound on the farm allotment, which is equivalent to 40 per cent of each farmer's average production during the base period and represents the percentage of production which is ordinarily used in domestic consumption."

Rental payments are estimated at $7,808,000 and a parity payments at $3,344,600, Mr. Reid said. New one-year contracts will be offered producers who did not sign the 92,773 two-year contracts covering about 1,340,000 acres in Arkansas last year. An average reduction of about 40 per cent was effected at that time. The maximum reduction asked this year will be 25 per cent, but contract signers may reduce their base acreage up to 30 per cent and receive payments accordingly if they wish.

Officers' Refund to Pay Off Debt Urged by Justices

S. F. Huntley Sponsors Measure Recommended by Quorum Court

NAME 5 PROPOSALS

Resolutions Drafted for Presentation to Little Rock Next Week

The Hempstead Quorum Court, in an adjourned session Monday at Washington, went on record as favoring five changes in state law affecting county government:

1. To require county officers to turn back a certain percentage of their salaries, when the county is in debt, to build up a sinking fund to discharge that debt.

2. To increase gasoline "turn-back" from the state to the counties from its present 1/2-cent per gallon to 1 cent. The counties formerly obtained 1 cent from the state's 6-cent tax, but now get only 1/2-cent from the state's 6 1/2-cent tax.

3. To provide by state law that the counties shall allow the county jailer only the actual cost of food for the prisoners, and placing the jailer on a flat salary.

County Judge H. M. Stephens told the court Hempstead county would profit from this even on a $150 monthly salary for the jailer.

4. A resolution calling for a new digest of Arkansas laws, to eliminate the confusion now arising from having to hunt through several old and incomplete digests.

5. Elimination of the fee basis to place prosecuting attorneys on a flat salary.

A committee from the court, including Justice S. F. Huntley, author of the officers' refund proposal, was named to draft these resolutions and furnish copies to the press and to State Senator John L. Wilson, who attended Monday's meeting with Judge Stephens.

The court further went on record as favoring use of free labor in working the county roads.

Organization of the County Equalization Board was completed, as follows: S. F. Huntley, Hope; W. B. Leforty, Falmouth; and J. Mark Jackson, Bangor.

Only two appropriations from the November term were amended at Monday's adjourned session: The charity and hospital appropriation was increased from $1,000 to $2,000; and the courthouse and jail appropriation from $750 to $950.

Clark County's Partition Illegal

Supreme Court Decision to That Effect Rendered in 1879

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—All questions about the status of Clark county following the discovery that a legislative act of April 3, 1879, would have parted part of it to Nevada county and another part to Dallas county, were settled Saturday when Attorney Dwight Crawford found in Arkansas Reports, Volume 34, a state Supreme Court decision of May, 1879, that the act was unconstitutional.

The case was in Clark Circuit Court. W. A. Bittle vs. Judge H. B. Stuart. The judge refused to consider the case because of the act and it was then taken to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court ruled that the description relating to the land to be added to Nevada county was clear, but that the boundaries of the land to be added to Dallas county would leave out a considerable piece of territory in the extreme northern end of Clark county, an error evidently having been made in not including this.

Court's Decision Cited
The court held that "said supposed act was an individual act, and cannot take effect in part and not in whole; that it is void because it cannot be ascertained from its terms with any reasonable certainty what territory is assigned to Dallas county; that one possible construction of it would render the area of Clark county below the proper limits; and that another possible construction would conflict with the constitutional provisions which provide that, until after the federal enumeration (census) of 1890 Clark county shall be a representative district with two representatives, and with the counties of Pike and Montgomery shall compose the Thirteenth Senatorial District."

The Nurse, and a Tragic Clue

New Mayor Has to Fight His Way in Biloxi, Miss., With Aid of Force

O'Keefe Takes Office in Biloxi, Miss., With Aid of Force

BILOXI, Miss.—(P)—By executing an early morning coup with armed deputy sheriffs and citizens, Mayor-Elect John A. O'Keefe Monday took the office and ousted his political foe Mayor R. Hart Chim, who had declared he would not give up the office because he considered the new mayor unqualified to hold it.

No shots were fired and Mayor O'Keefe declared that the citizens, at least 150 of them, were unarmed.

Attempt to Slay Hitler Reported

Chauffeur Wounded, Says Rumor—Government Denies All Reports

BERLIN, Germany.—(P)—Unconfirmed reports from unrelated quarters in Munich and Berlin Sunday night said that two Storm Troopers attempted to shoot Adolf Hitler at the Chancellery on the night of December 31, not harming Hitler, but wounding a chauffeur.

Another version, likewise unconfirmed, said the chauffeur was killed. Both reports were denied but it was noted that Chancellor Hitler has a new driver for his automobile.

It was said the reported attempt against Hitler's life motivated the mysterious secret meeting at the opera house in Berlin last Thursday.

Several French newspapers were reported confiscated in Germany for publishing reports of the alleged shooting.

Other rumors, officially denied, said the War Ministry had been closed because of a suspected espionage plot involving 25 persons.

Lindbergh Nurse Identifies Gown That Baby Wore

Admits She May Have Told Outsiders About Family's Movements

THUMB-GUARD CLUE

It May Prove Baby Was Actually Slain in Hunterdon County, N. J.

Copyright Associated Press
FLEMINGTON, N. J.—(P)—Betty Gow, nurse-maid to the slain Lindbergh baby, Monday identified the garments worn by the child on its last night in the Lindbergh home, and admitted under cross-examination that she "probably" told others of the Lindberghs' movements.

The nurse took the stand as the star state witness when court opened for the second week of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Bronx carpenter who is accused of the murder.

"This is the exact little shirt I made for the baby that night," she said. Attorney General David T. Wilentz, prosecuting Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder, handed her a tiny, discolored garment.

Miss Gow was still under cross-examination when the luncheon recess was taken at noon.

Her direct questioning brought out the finding by her 100 yards from the Lindbergh home of the thumb-guard worn by the baby, a point through which the state hopes to prove that the baby was killed in Hunterdon county.

NRA Loses Out in U.S. Supreme Court

Oil Curtailment Held Invalid in First of New Deal Tests

WASHINGTON.—(P)—In its first decision on the federal New Deal legislation the United States Supreme Court Monday held invalid the clause of the National Industrial Recovery Act (NRA) under which the government is attempting to curtail oil production.

Lawyers said this decision would not affect the remainder of the recovery act.

Civil Service Test Here Is Formality

Competitive Examination for Postmaster Scheduled January 22

The United States Civil service commission, at the request of the Postmaster General, announces a competitive examination for a postmaster in Hope. Applications must be filed by January 22.

This examination is held under the president's order of July 12, 1933, and not under the civil service act and rules.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated upon their education and training, business experience, and fitness.

Apply to the secretary of the board of civil service examiners at the post office in Hope or to the United States Civil Service commission, Washington, D. C., for application form 10, and form 2213 containing definite information in regard to the examination.

Postal officials said here Monday that they believed the announcement for a competitive examination for a postmaster here would not effect the standing of Robert Wilson, who at present is acting postmaster.

The examination is merely a procedure in which the government desires to obtain applications from a competitive examination.

No Municipal Court Session Held Monday

No city or state cases were heard Monday in Municipal Judge W. K. Lemley's court.

Several cases were on docket, but all were continued until next Monday.

Bulletins

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—Governor Futrell said Monday that his biennial message to the legislature next Monday, January 14, would emphasize that "we must provide adequate financial support for the tuberculosis sanatorium and care for destitute unemployed."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Take Year's Inventory of Your Health.

With the advent of the new year, one of the first things you should do is to take an inventory of your health. That's even more important than the financial inventory which our business men take annually to determine the status of their affairs.

A complete physical examination nowadays is more complicated and difficult than it used to be. It includes a careful investigation of the ability of many organs of the body to carry on their functions.

Not only the eyes, ears, nose and throat are examined but the doctor also seeks whether the heart is doing its work without difficulty, and whether the kidneys are getting rid of waste materials brought by the blood without any serious destruction of the kidneys themselves.

The lungs are tested as to the presence of the first signs of infection, such as tuberculosis or pneumonia, and as to whether breath is properly carried on.

By simple physical examinations, the doctor can find out whether the heart is of normal size and whether the rate and volume of the heartbeats are as consistent as they should be. The blood pressure is measured accurately to find out whether it is of the correct height for age and weight of the person concerned.

The doctor examines the blood to see whether the red blood cells and the white blood cells are correct in number, whether the varieties are properly distributed, and whether the blood is carrying sufficient red coloring matter. He also may test the blood to find out whether there is infection.

Your posture should be studied for signs of flat feet or twisting of the spine, and proper carriage of your weight. Your weight is determined in relation to your height, and a record of the weight will show whether you are gaining or losing weight in an abnormal manner.

A proper examination includes a study of your throat, your digestion, and your entire digestive canal from the mouth down. The presence of hemorrhoids or of abnormal bleeding should be investigated, particularly if you are past middle age.

The doctor also will inquire carefully into your habits as to sleep and rest, your diet and exercise, the amount of outdoor air you get and similar factors necessary in hygiene.

Your teeth also should be investigated by a competent dentist, to determine the presence of cavities at the earliest possible moment.

Such a survey may mean many years of additional life to you, through detection of changes at the earliest possible moment, and it may mean years of additional healthful life, which is of even greater significance.

A BOOK A DAY

The 23-Ring Circus Of Modern Science

The world of science is moving so fast these days that if the ordinary citizen relies on what he learned in high school or college a decade or two ago he is apt to find himself, presently, out of date as the theory that the sun revolves about the earth.

That is why we cannot have too many of these scientific "outline" books; and one of the best of these has just been published in "The Advance of Science," an excellent survey of the whole field, edited by Watson Davis, director of Science Service.

Mr. Davis, aided by sundry writers on the Science Service staff, here acts as a sort of ringmaster for the dizzying 23-ring circus which modern science has become. In chapter after chapter he examines recent scientific achievements and sums up progress to date; and his book is a fascinating kaleidoscope of the multiform quest for the unknown.

The whole field is covered. There are chapters on the sun and the stars, and careful studies of atomic researches—which, with their talk of positrons and delirious and such-like, make the atoms and molecules of your high school chemistry seem as simple as ABC.

There are chapters on evolution and on geology, on chemistry and on biology, on the prevention of disease and the changes in the weather.

All in all, the book makes a first-rate, authoritative review of the present state of scientific knowledge. You'll find it, as they say, educational and informative.

Published by Doubleday, Doran and Co., it sells for $3.50.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Prodigy Usually Unique—Menurin Family Has Rare Luck of Having Two Exceptional Children

Hepzibah Menurin, twelve-year-old pianist and sister of that young marvel, Yehudi, master of the violin long before he was ten, has made her musical debut.

I have been interested in this little girl for two reasons.

One was that I heard Yehudi play when he was twelve, or perhaps less than that. The other was that I met an old neighbor of theirs on the ship last winter and knew from her that there was a little sister coming along who might possibly become as famous as her brother.

But a "word" of the boy first. He isn't a little boy now, but a big one well into his teens. At least he is out of the prodigy class.

That night—will I ever forget it? There he stood in the huge concert hall packed to the wall with an audience that could not have been arrayed more gorgeously for the first night of opera. He came out on the stage in his blue suit and Eaton collar. Self-possessed and as nonchalant as any boy on his way to school. Handsome but real boy, every inch of him. Played brilliantly.

He played brilliantly for two long grueling hours the classics that Kreisler or Heifetz, Elman or Zimbalist might have selected. And as far as my uninitiated ear could detect, comparable to all. The audience nearly burst the doors in their astonishment and joy. They liked not only his remarkable performance but the nice boy himself.

His manner meant something to me. His playing was only part of it. How had his parents managed to keep him just boy with all the work of practicing (for he was even then a finished artist), and later the enormous adulation of an excited world?

So, when I met this neighbor from California, I was naturally more than interested. It was then I learned about Hepzibah.

I said the natural thing. "I never believed before that genius spread itself in layers through a family but rather that it dripped from heaven here and there, and like lightning never hit the same family twice. But this must be genius," I added, "What else?"

Parents Deserve Credit
"If you knew them," she answered with vicarious pride, "you might call it by another name. Or you would put the work where it belongs, on the parents. Maybe they are not geniuses, but they know how to bring out the ability of their children and still keep them happy and normal and real."

"That's the greatest genius of all," I conceded. "What are the children like at home?"

"Jolly and happy?" she said. "But the parents don't do things the way most of us do. They insist we waste too much time doing useless things for children, do not direct their efforts early enough, and let them drift."

This is of course in line with the behaviorists who believe that children can be "conditioned" early to like certain things and perfect themselves in it. That there is in most children a certain aptness that runs like a thread through a pattern and can be encouraged and strengthened from very very early years. I too believe. I still think for all that the genius struck twice in the same family.

Helpful Hints
The easy way for a girl to protect herself from a brutal young man is to keep both feet on the sidewalk.

PETER raised his head. He had kissed Valeria and found her kiss dust and ashes against his mouth. He said hoarsely, "Sorry, Val, for being a damn fool."

He started the car and drove recklessly, blindly while Valeria felt the tide of humiliation wash over her.

Peter had kissed her and then had turned away. He didn't want her kisses. If Peter had seen her eyes then he could not have missed the dangerous glow.

Peter left her at the door. Valeria did not urge him to come inside. She wanted him to go. Her rage could not be held back much longer. If he stayed she would say irretrievable things. Let him go. Let the old house go. Let him stay. Let until loneliness drove him to her arms again. Next time he would not get away!

Peter went to Alan Vincent next morning, offering to settle the whole transaction for whatever the decorator thought the completed job would have been worth. "I realize this is queer business," Peter said, "but I don't want to go ahead. Neither do I want you to lose by it."

"He's quarreled with his girl," Allan decided. Allan spent the rest of the morning straightening out what he called the "mess."

He came home early in the afternoon, shut himself in his studio and began working on plans for another house.

As the afternoon wore on Allan became conscious that the house seemed unusually quiet.

Generally about this time he could look out and see Ann and the children engaged in some form of activity. The sandbox dotted with bright buckets was within range of his vision. Almost any day he could step to the window and watch a race or a golf game with the miniature equipment he had given Sonny last Christmas. Sometimes Ann would be sitting on the green bench under the tree with the children beside her.

He heard the car on the drive just then and a moment later the children racing through the house. There was a knock on the door.

"Allan!"
"Come in."
Mrs. Tracy stood in the doorway, a worried look on her face. Sissy came, climbing into his arms. "Ann's gone," Sissy said.

Allan said nothing.

"Deliver me from temperamental people, Allan!" Mrs. Tracy said petulantly. "At least from all temperamental people except myself."

"Great heavens. Can't you get to the point?"

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Knead Away Oversized Hips

A three-purpose exercise to reduce hips, thighs and stomach must appeal to women who have little time to devote to exercises but wish to keep their figures trim and supple. Although fairly simple to do, it certainly does break down fatty tissues in the very spots where most overweight people want to reduce.

Lie flat on your back on the floor with ankles together and arms to your sides. Grasping your left knee with your hands, pull it upward to your chest. Now, keeping the right leg straight, use your hands to roll your left hip in wide circles on the floor. Feel the muscles in your stomach stretch and pull as you make each revolution with the left leg. Be sure to keep your hip flat against the floor.

Reverse the exercise, holding the right knee with your hands and rolling the right hip in circles against the floor. Then grasp both knees and describe wide circles with both hips.

If most of your surplus poundage seems to be on your hips, do this exercise, too.

Lie flat on your back with ankles clasped above your head and hands together. Keeping heels and shoulders flat against the floor, roll your hips first to the left and then to the right. Repeat twenty times.

Only a day at a time. There may never be a tomorrow. Only a day at a time, and that we can live, we know. The trouble we cannot bear is only the trouble we borrow. And the trials that never come are the ones that first us. Only a step at a time. I may be the angels bend over us. To bear us above the stones that wound our feet by the way. The step that is hardest of all is not the one just before us. And the path we dread the most may be smoothed another day.

Future activities during the new year were outlined.

Mae West's Father Dies of Heart Attack

OAKLAND, Calif.—(P)—Jack West, 65, father of Mae West, motion picture star, died Sunday of a heart attack.

West, one time pugilist, had been under treatment here for several weeks. His physician, Dr. Samuel Yahroff, said he had recuperated sufficiently to return to be with his daughter in Los Angeles during the holidays.

Last week, however, he returned here for additional treatments.

that the auditor's report indicated a probable surplus of $16,000 in the state treasury by November 1, and it was estimated that the surplus would reach $50,000 within the ensuing year. Because of constitutional provisions which prohibited a greater rate of taxation than was actually necessary, he recommended the legislature, saying in his message:

"The fact that our treasury is full to overflowing is truly gratifying; it indicates a provident legislation and a prosperous people. But our constitution providently restricts enormous assessments upon the people. . . . I, therefore, recommend to your wise consideration the propriety of reducing the taxes to the economical and legitimate demands of government."

BUDGET MESSAGE

to get started by early April and reach full swing by fall. Out of unexpected recovery balances, he asked Congress for the immediate reappropriation of $900,000,000 for direct relief grants until July to tide over the transition period.

For "regular" government costs exclusive of "recovery and relief," the president asked $3,938,000,000 in 1936, compared with the current $3,321,000,000.

Increase Analyzed

Major items in the increase:

1. A $180,000,000 boost for national defense to $792,484,000.
2. A $65,000,000 increase for restoring the government pay cut next July 1.
3. A $200,000,000 allotment for normal public works out of a proposed annual $300,000,000 fund.
4. $130,000,000 more for veterans pensions and other requirements.
5. A $20,000,000 boost in contributions to the civil service fund; $50,000,000 more for the veterans certificate fund.

For Congress and the country, president Roosevelt listed these "three major objectives" of his budget figures:

- (1) The normal functions of the United States government can be carried on with economy and a high standard of efficiency, (2) the broad obligation of the government to use all proper efforts to prevent destitution can be maintained under more practical methods than we are using at present and (3) the excellent credit for the government will be maintained for the common good.

Farm Payments Cut

One of the major cuts in "recovery" items for 1936 was an estimated reduction of more than $200,000,000 in benefit payments to farmers, as compared with the current year's estimate of $725,801,000.

The president attributed the projected larger national defense outlays to "the current policy of Congress and the executive to make up for the delay by the United States in meeting the provisions of the naval treaties of 1922 and 1930, and to provide replacement and improved equipment for the army."

Mr. Roosevelt forecast an increase in government revenue next year to $3,901,000,000 from the estimated income of $3,711,000,000 this year. Both figures were dependent, however, on continuing the present tax structure including 3-cent postage.

Continuing the custom started last year, Mr. Roosevelt held a special press conference Saturday to discuss the budget.

The presidential office took on a school room atmosphere as Mr. Roosevelt answered questions for more than an hour. Newsmen filled the chamber, overflowing available chairs to sit on the floor at the president's feet.

Daniel Bell, the black-haired expert on figures whom as summoned from treasury ranks to become acting director of the budget, sat at the president's elbow and frequently was consulted. Secretary Morgenthau also sat nearby.

The president said he wanted the lending authority of the reconstruction corporation continued. Repayments are expected to meet its cash requirements and more.

Mr. Roosevelt said that "most" of the "emergency agencies" of the government "should be continued" on the ground that they "fill important present needs."

With the budget went recommendations for continuing numerous economy provisions now in force. The president also made clear to newsmen that relief loans to states and municipalities would be granted at the cost of the money to the federal government, plus a slight percentage to meet overhead costs.

Luther Ellison of Camden Dies

C. of C. Secretary Succumbs Following Apoplectic Stroke

CAMDEN—Luther Ellison, aged 49, secretary of the Camden Chamber of Commerce since 1925, died at his home here at 8 o'clock Sunday night. He suffered an attack of apoplexy three weeks ago and had improved until he suffered another attack a few days ago.

Mr. Ellison was born in Georgia and came to Arkansas when a young man. Before coming here he was secretary of the Ruston (La.) Chamber of Commerce. In November, 1915, he was made secretary of the Jonesboro Chamber of Commerce and served for many years. During the war he handled the Liberty Loan drive and community activities there.

Mr. Ellison assisted materially in the industrial and agricultural developments of Camden and Ouachita counties. Location of several large industries, including the paper mill, pottery plant and furniture factor here, was a direct result of his activities. He was at one time secretary of the Pershing Highway Association, the Winniepeg-to-New Orleans route, and was one of the founders of the De Soto Trains Association which includes Highway 3, Memphis to Texarkana.

He also was instrumental in obtaining federal aid for highways in South Arkansas, and led the fight for completion of the Camden-Fordyce highway as well as the pavement between here and El Dorado, both projects on U. S. Highway 167. His latest work was formation of the Highway 4 Association to boost completion of this project.

In 1922 he made an unsuccessful campaign for commissioner of mines, manufactures and agriculture, and the strenuousness of this broke down his health and he never fully recovered.

In 1927 he organized the South Arkansas Chamber of Commerce, and industrial tours of this organization to the East and North were outstanding achievements. More than 100 men and women from various parts of Arkansas went on each of the three tours. Along agricultural lines, his greatest work was his successful fight for tick eradication in South Arkansas.

"I want a present for an old gentleman for Christmas," she said.

"Yes, mam," replied the clerk. "Something nice in ties?"

"No; he has a beard, the girl explained. "H'm," the clerk murmured thoughtfully. "Perhaps a fancy vest might be suitable?"

"No; it's a long beard," came back the answer.

The clerk signed wearily. "Well, how about carpet slippers?"

Athletic Meeting to Be Held Here

Dates for District 10 Cage Tournery and Literary Events to Be Fixed

Members of District 10 of the Arkansas Athletic association will meet in Hope next Saturday for the purpose of setting a date for the annual district basketball tournament and the spring literary and athletic meets.

Delegates to the meeting are expected to consider a possible formation of a Southwest Arkansas football conference to determine the champion of this section each year.

Legislation will be proposed at the next state teacher's association meeting which will seek to inaugurate a play-off among district champions at the close of the regular season in order that a state champion may be determined.

Concrete Mileage Will Be Increased

178 Miles Completed Past Two Years—Paid for With U. S. Aid

LITTLE ROCK—A total of 178 miles of concrete pavement was completed by the state Highway Department during the two years ending June 30, 1934, and 41 miles will be built in 1934-35, the department announced in the biennial report issued Sunday.

Other construction during the past two years was as follows:

Asphaltic pavements, high type, 36 miles.

Asphaltic surfacing, medium type, 149 miles.

Base courses for asphaltic types, 130 miles.

Gravel surfacing, 254 miles.

Grading and drainage, 405 miles.

Bridge structures, all types, 35,739 lineal feet.

Railroad grade crossings eliminated by relocation, 29.

Grade crossings eliminated by structures, eight.

Construction improvements during the past two years were financed wholly with federal funds, except for a small appropriation of state funds made available for administering federal allocations.

In 1932, the state received $2,174,786 in federal aid, and in 1933, $1,846,477.60. Federal aid funds must be matched by the state, and since Arkansas was unable to appropriate funds then for highway construction the government loaned the state $3,489,339 to be used to match federal aid. The loans were to be repaid from future federal grants.

Refuses to Talk About Shooting in Gurdon Boarding-House

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Mrs. Fay Ryan, aged 30, of Gurdon, shot twice at her home Friday night, was reported in a grave condition at a hospital here Sunday night. However, physicians believe she has a chance to recover.

W. R. Coley, 52, of Texarkana, and his son, Bernard, 28, were held in connection with the shooting. The elder Coley is alleged to have fired on her when he went to her hotel in an effort to break up a love affair between the couple.

Mrs. Ryan declined to give her version of the shooting except to confirm the statement attributed to young Coley that they expect to be married regardless of his parents' objections. Bernard Coley has a wife at Texarkana.

Highway Litigation Barred by Court

Won't Entertain Suits Not Covered by Contract or Appropriation

LITTLE ROCK—Arkansas Supreme Court said in effect Monday that no suits would be maintained against the State Highway Department where there was no appropriation specifically made for the matter in controversy.

The ruling was made in the appeal of the highway commission seeking to prevent Chancellor Frank H. Dodge, in Pulaski chancery, from proceeding with the trial of a suit by L. R. Woods for a fee in connection with the reduction of freight rates on highway building materials.

A $3,000 decree favoring Mrs. Ethel Skinner against the Order of Railway Conductors, tried in Clark circuit court, was affirmed.

New Route for U. S. Planes Being Planned

NEW YORK—(P)—A third trans-continental air transport route, linking New York with Los Angeles through the national capital and the south will be established next week, C. B. Smith, president of American Airlines, announced Sunday.

Leaving Newark, N. J., in the early afternoon, the liners will fly by way of Philadelphia, Washington, Nashville, Memphis, Dallas and Fort Worth and will reach Los Angeles the following morning.

"In this new service," Smith said, "we will combine in one service two outstanding plane developments of 1934—the commodious high speed of Douglas airliners for daylight flight and the luxury of Condor sleeping planes for night travel."

The first ship will leave for the west over the new route on January 13, he declared.

WHAT I WANTED TO TALK TO YOU ABOUT, MR. TRANT, IS INSURANCE! NOT FOR MYSELF--BUT INSURANCE ON MY HORSE!--A RACEHORSE! COULD YOU WRITE UP AN ACCIDENT AND THEFT POLICY ON HIM? AN ACCIDENT, LAYING HIM UP DURING THE RACE SEASON, WOULD CAUSE ME A VERY GREAT FINANCIAL LOSS!

SORRY-- WE ONLY INSURE HUMANS! COULDN'T I INTEREST YOU IN A POLICY? WE HAVE A PLAN NOW-- ETC. ETC. ETC.

TH' OL' MAN COULD USE AN ACCIDENT POLICY, NOW--MRS. HOOPLE HAS TH' AX ON TH' STONE FOR HIM-- HE 'PUT TH' SNATCH ON HER HOT WATER BOTTLE FOR HIS NAG'S COLIC!

MAY BE AN ACCIDENT, IF THE HORSE EVER WINS
